ITALY TO WAR WITHOUT QUARTER?

SEEKS TO CRUSH RESISTANCE

RED CROSS PLANES ON MERCY FLIGHT

MUST RISK ATTACK BY ITALIAN AIRMEN

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph. Copyright Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1925. Received, Jan. 4, 7 a.m.)

Rome, Jan. 3.

Smarting under foreign criticism of the aerial bombing attacks upon the Swedish Red Cross unit with the Ethiopian troops, the military authorities are reportedly preparing for aerial warfare against Ethiopia without quarter.

Such a campaign, waged from the air, would be in the nature of a reprisal against alleged Ethiopian atrocities to Italian prisoners.

The Italian press is demanding that the Government use every method of warfare against the black tribesmen in order to crush resistance.

Foreign observers believe that apparently inspired press comments are to pave the way for an intensive air offensive in an effort to demoralise the Ethiopian troops and end the war quickly.

It is believed that Italians realise it will take several years to conquer the country defended recklessly and courageously by the Ethiopian tribes at the present rate of progress of Rome's legions.—United Press.

ADVANCE CONTINUES

Dessale, Jan. 3.

The Ethiopians are boasting that they have forced the Italians to evacuate all the Tigrai area, with the exception of positions behind the Aksum-Adowa-Adigrat line, plus a narrow ribbon of communication line from Adigrat to Makale.—United Press.

BOMBERS RETURN

Dessale, Jan. 3.

Ras Nasibu, the Ethiopian commander at this sector, reports that Italian aeroplanes on the southern front have bombed and machine-gunned the wells at Bulale and Sasabaneh, twenty miles south of Daggahbur, killing five Ethiopians and nineteen camels.—Reuter.

UNDER THE CROSS

Addis Ababa, Jan. 3.

Flying in planes bearing a large Red Cross emblem and hoping thus to avoid attacks by Italian fighting machines, Baron von Rosen, the Swedish Red Cross leader, and a Russian airman, Babicheff, in Fokker machines of the light, military type, have set out on a dangerous mission.

They took off with the intention of landing at Yergalum, to unload there a cargo of Red Cross supplies to replace those destroyed by the Italian bombers a few days ago.

Thereafter Babicheff will undertake a still more dangerous mission. He will fly through territory infested by Italian war planes, seeking a landing-place in a field near Muggeli.

Later, the second plane will follow, carrying Dr. Kurt Hanner, the Swedish Consul and head of the Swedish Imperial Hospital.

The Red Cross representatives will attempt to rescue the wounded members of the Red Cross unit who were struck down while at work among the Ethiopian wounded by the Italian attackers.—United Press.

MISS MACDONALD'S
NEW INN

London, Jan. 3.

Miss Isabel Macdonald, who acted as hostess during her father's occupancy of the Promersbury, today formally took possession of Ye Olde Plough Inn, an old world hostelry nestled at the foot of the Bucking-hamshire hills near Chequers, the residence of the Prime Minister.

As far as possible, the staff will consist of her father's previous retainers.—Reuter Special.

STARTLING EVIDENCE OBTAINED

HAUPTMANN CASE TO BE RE-OPENED?

COUNSEL'S CLAIMS

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1925. Received, January 4, 10 a.m.)

Trenton, N.J., Jan. 3.

Mr. Walter Fisher, counsel for Bruno Hauptmann, who is condemned to die in the week of January 14 for the murder of the infant son of Colonel and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh, declares that he has discovered startling new evidence.

It is on such evidence, says Mr. Fisher, that the Court of Pardons, which sits next week to consider Hauptmann's appeal for clemency, will be compelled to relieve the condemned man.

The lawyer would not disclose the nature of the evidence. That, he insisted, was impossible.

However, he did assert that the Court would want to call fresh witnesses and re-open the whole case. Yesterday, Mr. Fisher's associates divulged that they had obtained an authentic photograph of "the renegade." But they would say no more.

Although it has not been confirmed, it is authoritatively stated that the Governor of the State of New Jersey has virtually promised Hauptmann a reprieve if he will disclose the names of his accomplices and admit his part in the Lindbergh crime. His lawyers point to the injustice of such an offer, declaring that in order to save his life Hauptmann might be tempted to admit the crime and invent the names of confederates even if he was guilty.—United Press.

The Liberty League's report to the House of Representatives revealed that eight members of the Dupont family loaned or donated $145,250, equal to 25 per cent. of its total funds, to the League.

Alfred P. Sloan, A. Weir and Joseph Widener each donated $15,000, and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., $5,000.—United Press.

(By Telegraph. Copyright Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1925. Received, January 4, 7 a.m.)

Cairo, Jan. 3.

Rioting broke out here again today as the dangerous student element fought with police and soldiers in the course of demonstrations in which they demanded the release of student leaders who have been in custody since the outbreak of last month.

Egyptian soldiers were used for the first time today when the student mobs became uncontrollable. Police had struggled with them for hours, but hopelessly outnumbered could not break up the rioting crowds.

Soldiers armed with shotguns finally were ordered out and, in the streets of Cairo, dropped a shotgun barrage in front of the crowd. Their firing finally broke the students' ranks.

Police were standing in readiness, carrying batons and canes. They charged as the students wavered and with their batons completed the rout.

Twenty-two students were wounded and nineteen police and soldiers hurt.—United Press.

CALLS HALT

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1925. Received, January 4, 7 a.m.)

Liverpool, Jan. 3.

Colonel and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh, and their little son Jon, have left by automobile for Cardiff, for a visit to their relatives there, people by the name of Morgan.

The British newspapers have withdrawn from the hunt—for it was little less—with Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh the quarry.

They went to ground the moment they landed, and were guarded in their hotel suite by private detectives while a pack of newspapermen loitered in the lobbies and corridors waiting for something to happen.

Finally the hunt slackened. Cameramen and motion picture machines were removed from sight, at least. The British newspapers decided that there was no more "copy" to be had. They withdrew their entries.

When the Lindbergh family started for Cardiff, however, they were still followed by the American newspaper contingent. The movements of the famous aviator and his almost equally famous wife are still news to them.—United Press.

Sea Monster At Repulse Bay

HOTEL RESIDENT SEES
QUEER VISITOR

Following the appearance of tigers on the mainland, now comes the sighting at Repulse Bay last evening of what appeared to be a small whale.

At about 6.45 p.m., Captain F. A. Swaffer, a resident of the Hotel, was looking out of his window when, about half a mile from the shore, he noticed a disturbance on the water. Watching closely, he saw a few minutes later, a black object, which appeared to be from eight to twelve feet long, moving about. It then went down, but later came to the surface again, and had an appearance somewhat similar to that of a porpoise, although its movements were not those of such a creature.

Later, the object re-appeared several times on the surface, and on two or three occasions it blew up a considerable volume of water, suggesting that it might have been a small whale. Eventually, it disappeared out to sea.

Several other people besides Captain Swaffer saw the object and interestingly watched its movements.

VERY RARE VISITORS

It is likely that the visitor was a baby whale. In the early days of the Colony, American whalers used to put into Hongkong, but in consequence of the slaughter of whales

DEFENCE OF U.S. NEUTRALITY

PRESIDENT TO HAVE WIDE POWERS

NEW LEGISLATION MAY HELP CURTAIL WARS

Washington, Jan. 3.

A permanent Neutrality Bill, giving the President of the United States discretionary powers to place an embargo on war materials, and retaining the present obligatory embargo on actual implements of war, has been introduced into the House of Representatives by Mr. Samuel D. McReynolds, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Mr. McReynolds said the Bill is satisfactory to the Administration and had been drafted after long conferences with the President and State Department officials.

Under the Bill the embargoes which the President will be empowered to impose on the shipment of materials used for war purposes would restrict exports to all belligerents to ordinary peace-time quantities.

Food and medical supplies would be specifically exempted, Mr. McReynolds added. He would submit an amendment, however, exempting American countries at war with non-American countries from the mandatory arms embargo.

ROOSEVELT MAKES POLICY CLEAR

NEUTRALITY
ESSENTIAL

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1925. Received, January 4, 10.15 a.m.)

Washington, Jan. 3.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt today spoke at the re-assembly of Congress, addressing a joint session. He recalled his inauguration speech, saying: "The crisis of that moment was almost exclusively national. The world picture was an image of substantial peace."

"This gave us a reasonable expectation that the barriers to mutual confidence and increased trade could be removed," he said.

Since then the good neighbour policy had prevailed in the Western Hemisphere. However, he went on, the rest of the world—and there is the rub—since the summer of 1933 had seen the temper and purposes of the rulers of many great populations in Europe and Asia not pointing the way either to peace or good-will among men.

"A point has been reached where people in the America's must take cognisance of the growing ill-will and the market trend towards aggression, of increasing armaments and shortening tempers—the situation having many elements which might lead to tragedy and general world war," he warned.

MANY WANT PEACE

He said that many nations, if left alone, would be content to solve their problems peacefully but that rulers must be vigilant against attack "by rulers of other people who fail to subscribe to the principles of bettering the human race by peaceful means."

He declared the peoples of such nations "blindly follow leaders seeking automatic power."

Nations seeking expansion, seeking to rectify injustices of former wars, or seeking outlets for trade or population, failed to demonstrate patience and had reverted to the law of the sword or the fist—the fantastic conception that they alone were chosen to fulfil a mission.

"I recognise these words will not (Continued on Page 16.)"

In North China waters they have become very scarce and a visit to these waters nowadays is a rarity.

In February, 1893, a stray whale appeared in Hongkong harbour and was chased by the crews of amateur whalers, but it made good its escape to sea.

The Bill generally bans financial transactions with belligerent countries. The measure, explains the Congressman, is specifically aimed at enacting into law the President's policy that all trade with belligerents is at the traders' own risk.

Simultaneously, Senator Key Pittman introduced into the Senate a similar bill, which, however, makes it obligatory for the President to place an embargo upon all exports to belligerents exceeding peace-time quantities.—Reuter.

CASH AND CARRY PLAN

Washington, Jan. 3.

Two groups have advanced plans for more stringent neutrality legislation to be carried out by the reconvening Congress.

The Senate Munitions Committee members, Senators Nye and Clark, have advocated a cash and carry neutrality law to replace the temporary safeguards expiring on February 20. By this measure they hope to prevent the use by warring nations of American ships and money.

Mr. Samuel McReynolds and Senator Key Pittman, after a conference with Mr. Cordell Hull, the Secretary of State, which had been preceded by many conferences with President Roosevelt and Mr. Hull, have finally advocated the equal application of all embargoes to all belligerents.

It is understood that the State Department won its point that the President should be given discretionary power to place an embargo on essential war materials.

Meanwhile, the Senate Munitions Committee is awaiting Mr. J. P. Morgan's appearance on Tuesday to prove that in 1914 American bankers were so involved in the European war that a financial collapse would have followed its sudden termination.—United Press.

DRASTIC MEASURE

Third, and most drastic, Neutrality Bill has been introduced in the House of Representatives by Mr. Ludlow, Indiana representative. It proposed to prohibit American exports or loans of any kind to belligerents upon the outbreak of war.—Reuter.

America's Big Deficit

WRONG SIDE

(Special to "Telegraph")

Washington, Jan. 3.

The Treasury closed the first half of the fiscal year on December 31, with a deficit of $1,880,000,000, compared with President Roosevelt's estimate of $2,282,000,000 for the full fiscal year ending June 30, 1935.

Records since July 1, 1935, have totalled $1,002,000,000 and expenditure has been $3,782,000,000, including $1,075,000,000 for emergency expenditure.

The gross public debt is $30,857,000,000 and the country's gold assets are $10,125,000,000.—Reuter Special.

EXAMINATIONS A LOTTERY

STARTLING RESULTS OF EXPERTS' INQUIRY CAREERS MENACED BY CHANCE

A severe shock to faith in the examination system is bound to result from a remarkable and disquieting report issued in London.

It proves conclusively "that the part played by chance in the verdicts given at different examinations on which careers depend is often a great one."

Many surprising results were revealed by tests, and the question is asked: "Should examinations be abolished?"

The report is the result of an investigation which has been made over a period of years by an authoritative committee of which Sir Philip Hartog was the Director.

MEMBERS OF COMMITTEE
An International Conference on Examinations was held in 1931, and Committees of Investigation were set up in all European countries represented. The report of the English Committee, published today under the title "An Examination of Examinations" (Macmillan, 1s.), was compiled by Sir Philip Hartog and Dr. E. C. Rhodes, of London University.

The other members of the English Committee were: Sir Michael Sadler, Sir Percy Nunn, Dr. P. B. Ballard, Dr. C. Dellale Burns, Dr. Cyril Burt, Dr. H. R. Hamley, Dr. C. Spearman, Dr. Godfrey H. Thomson, and Dr. C. W. Valentine. These names command universal respect on educational affairs.

All the scripts which they have investigated were actual papers that had been written by candidates in the course of an ordinary examination, and they covered many different kinds of tests.

What the investigators did was to send these scripts to different examiners, and then, after an interval, again to the same examiners.

The results are most extraordinary, the variations in marking being almost unbelievable.

HISTORY TEST
The "School Certificate" is an examination taken by nearly all secondary school leavers. In the subject of history the investigators selected fifteen scripts which had been awarded exactly the same "middling" mark by a certain examining authority. These were sent to fifteen other examiners, who were asked to assign to them both marks and awards of Failure, Pass, and Credit.

After an interval which varied with the different examiners, but was never less than 12 months, or more than 19 months, the same scripts, after being renumbered, were marked again by 14 out of the 15 original examiners (one being unable to serve again).

Whereas the scripts had all been allotted the same moderate mark by the original examining body, they were allotted by the 15 examiners on the first occasion 43 different marks out of a maximum of 95, varying from 21 to 70.

On the second occasion the total number of the different marks was 44, and the marks varied from 14 to 71. On each occasion the 15 examiners awarded a total of 210 verdicts (Failure, Pass, or Credit) to the 15 candidates.

It was found that in 92 cases out of the 210, the individual examiners gave a different verdict on the second occasion from the verdict awarded on the first.

One examiner changed his verdict in regard to 8 candidates out of the 15.

UNIVERSITY DIVERGENCIES
Other subjects in this School Certificate examination were investigated in the same way, as were also some University examinations, and revealed much the same variations in marking.

Included in the report is the result of a similar investigation by the Durham University Examinations Board on School Certificate English. Here are some of the divergencies they found in Paper I. (Essay and Prose):

Candidate X was awarded 28, 32, 40, 56, 68, 68, 80 out of 100 by seven different examiners of the same paper.

Candidate Y was similarly awarded 24, 42, 48, 60, 60, 64, 70 out of 100 by the seven examiners. Candidate Z was awarded 16, 36, 38, 44, 44, 46, 60 out of 100 by the seven examiners.

In Paper II. (Literature) the variations were also great, though rather less than in Paper I. The marks of the candidates in regard to whom the divergencies were greatest were:

P: 19, 41, 45, 46, 46, 49, 58.
Q: 37, 50, 52, 52, 54, 63, 71.
R: 38, 39, 45, 47, 53, 56, 70.

Thus can seven examiners differ over the same paper.

ARITHMETIC, ENGLISH
The most complex of all the investigations dealt with two subjects, Arithmetic and English. In what is known as the Special Place Examination. The scripts of 150 candidates in these two subjects were marked by 10 examiners in each subject.

At the original examination the fate of a candidate would primarily depend on two examiners, one for English and one for Arithmetic. Of the examiners actually employed in the investigation, two were chosen at random and designated A. B. C. D. &c.

As an example of the differences of marks of these "couples," Candidate No. 1 received from the ten couples of examiners the following marks out of a maximum of 200:

105, 107, 109, 110, 119, 124, 124, 130, 136, and 139.

The range of variation being 34 marks. The average range of variation was 33 marks, the smallest range 12, and the highest 63.

Viva-voce examinations also came under investigation. Two Boards of experienced examiners were formed from a panel, including such experts as Professor Ernest Barker, Dr. W. W. Vaughan, and Sir Henry Richards. Each Board interviewed the same candidates, and assessed them. The orders of merit of the two Boards are very different.

The candidate, out of the 16, who was placed first by Board I was placed thirteenth by Board II, and the candidates placed first by Board II was placed eleventh by Board I.

RESULTS ABROAD
Sufficient has been said to indicate the remarkable results of the inquiry. Similar inquiries have been going on in France, Germany and Switzerland, and it is understood that they have produced somewhat similar results.

The inquiries have been made possible by a grant from the Carnegie Corporation for three years to each of the above countries.

This Committee, having shattered even their own faith in examinations, ask "Should examinations be abolished?" and if not "What remedies can be suggested?"

They are opposed to the root and branch policy, and agree that examinations as a test of efficiency are necessary. In particular, they

Surgeons Of Prehistory Ages

Washington, Dec. 25.
Indians who lived on lonely Kodiak Island off the Alaskan coast when Julius Caesar and Cleopatra sailed the Nile were experts in the delicate art of brain surgery, Dr. Alec Hrdlicka, world famous anthropologist, has just announced.

He announced that he had found a skull at least 2,000 years old which showed signs of a successful trephining, an operation of boring into the skull which only skilled surgeons would attempt to-day. Dr. Hrdlicka found the skull while excavating the lower levels of an ancient island settlement last summer.

When the crude stone knives, drills and scrapers used by the primitive Indians of that time are contrasted to the instruments of surgeons now, it is little short of a miracle that any patient could have survived the boring into their skulls. Such operations were made to relieve pressure against the brain from a fractured skull or to remove bone splinters.

These Indian surgeons bored holes directly above the brain sinuses where a slight slip of the crude operating tool meant death to the patient.

Dr. Hrdlicka, curator of physical anthropology at the Smithsonian Institution, said the skull found last summer was the first discovered in Alaska. Previous skulls which showed signs of trephining had been found among the ruins of the relatively high civilizations of Peru and Bolivia and also in an old mound along the Fraser River in British Columbia.

Examples of this operation having been performed thousands of years ago in Europe and Egypt have been found. The skulls of the mummies found in Egypt indicated that these peoples knew how to make such an operation. Dr. Hrdlicka's find shows that their Indian contemporaries who had migrated to the new world from Asia also knew how to relieve crushed skulls and other disorders of the brain, much along the line of modern medicine. This might indicate a common cultural centre for both groups.

Dr. Hrdlicka, who also has studied South American skulls, said that some of the half dozen skulls which showed signs of trephining had as many as five distinct operations at intervals years apart.—United Press.

think the traditional "essay" examination should be preserved. But they hold that it is as impracticable to recommend an a priori cure for the defects of the present examination system as it would be to recommend an a priori cure for a disease.

"It is only by careful and systematic experiment," they state, "that methods of examination can be devised not liable to the distressing uncertainties of the present system."

"No doubt," the report adds, "investigations like those recorded by our Committee, and administrative experiments in allowing teachers, in conjunction with Government or University inspectors, to brand their own herrings, would involve expenditure, but such expenditure and experiments would be justified in the public interest."

HOME POLITICS

REVIEW OF LAST YEAR'S ACTIVITIES

London, Jan. 1.

Britain's brand new Parliament and re-juggled government face 1936 with the delightful prospect of spending lots and lots of money.

Plans which will be launched in the new year envisage the expenditure of something like £600,000,000 during the next five years.

They include about £250,000,000 on strengthening the defence force; £100,000,000 on highway development; £300,000,000 on railroad improvement; and several millions on a seven-point education programme.

These last three items from the spear-head of the Government's attack on unemployment, which seemed to be the only domestic problem facing Britain in the coming year.

In fact, unemployment has been the only issue at home during the past twelve months. Foreign politics have dominated the parliamentary scene to the exclusion of almost everything else.

From the purely political point of view, the year has been without doubt the most eventful since the point of view of the welfare of the people, it has been a year of steady success. Unemployment forced below the two million mark... Britain once again the "world's bankers," the little lost in 1935 when the gold standard was abandoned... factory chimneys smoking again all over the country... trade returns moving steadily upwards... a balanced budget... wages cuts restored... some taxes, particularly income tax, reduced.

Unemployment.

Yet over it all has hung the spectre of unemployment and the dice played of the industrial areas in the north and midlands.

At the beginning of the year, Britain tried to nationalize the dole by the formation of an Unemployment Assistance Board. The attempt, so far, has been a failure. The changes over from the local system of payment was too quick, and, after about three months, in the face of a countrywide outcry, the Board had to revert temporarily to the old local scales.

This system was still in force at the end of the year, but the Government promises speedy alteration in the national plan, with its anomalies and unfairnesses wiped out, should soon be in operation again.

In November, the Government was occupied with an offshoot of the unemployment problem in the shape of a threatened miners' strike.

The miners demanded a wage increase of two shillings a day, and a national ballot showed 97 per cent. in favour of a strike if they didn't get it. The Government entered into the dispute with a hurried promise of an extra shilling a day as a temporary measure pending a definite settlement which will meet the miners' demands.

Party Politics

In the field of party politics there has been much more activity. Highlight of the year was, of course, the general election on November 14, which returned the National Government to power with the comfortable majority of 210.

Although it had been a foregone conclusion that the Government would win, its unwieldy majority of 411 was expected to be reduced considerably, and a figure of about 180 was generally mentioned.

Even Government supporters were surprised when it touched 210, because during the campaign they had given grave fears that the apparent apathy of the electors would react in favour of the opposition parties. As it was, approximately 74 per cent. of the thirty-one million odd voting population went to the polls, compared with about 71 per cent. at the last general election in 1931.

The radio was said to be the reason why the experts went so wrong in their forecasts, and in their fear of apathy. Meetings were poorly attended but the public got the propaganda just the same through their wireless receiving sets. As comparatively few of the voters appeared out of doors until polling day, the experts could form no opinion as to their interest.

It was the Italo-Ethiopian war that caused a general election this year. Ordinarily it would have been held some time next year, before the Government's five-year term of office expired in September.

But when all parties endorsed the Government's firm stand at Geneva in favour of sanctions against Italy, support of the League Covenant, and collective security, the Government decided to go to the country on the issue of a foreign policy already endorsed by all parties, thus making its re-election a virtual certainty.

Rearmament

Coupled with the foreign policy issue was the Government's proposal to strengthen all arms of the fighting forces, and again the Opposition could hardly protest since arms, theoretically, are necessary for collective security.

So, although the international situation was the issue, domestic affairs, particularly unemployment, formed the keynote of the campaign.

The Opposition has been virtually brought to the return of party politics, abandoned when the National Coalition Government was formed in August, 1931, and secondly it has simplified the different line-ups.

The representation of the National Labour and National Liberal parties in Parliament is now so small, that the Government is to all intents and purposes a Conservative one. At the same time the Labour Party, although greatly strengthened, lacks a powerful leader, and the Opposition Liberals have practically passed out of the picture.

Lloyd George

As a result of the election, the Liberals have only seven representatives in Parliament, and were blown off all, their leader, Sir Herbert Samuel, was defeated. Sir Archibald

BRITISH FLOODS

WINDSOR GROUNDS INUNDATED

London, January 3.

There was a further increase of rain and water owing to floods in parts of the Thames Valley to-day, but in the upper reaches local Thames Conservancy officials expressed the view that the floods were now on the point of receding.

Above Reading, the level of the waters fell last night.

Lower down the River, however, conditions show no improvement and at Windsor, although the stream was steeper there was a rise of about one inch in the level.

Even the Round Tower of Windsor Castle stretches of water are to be seen on all sides, and the water has invaded the private grounds of the Castle.

Paris, but not all, of Eton playing fields are under water, and certain roads in Eton are closed to traffic.

Interference with road traffic, which is being temporarily diverted in many parts of the country, is causing considerable congestion elsewhere.

Important roads in Buckinghamshire, Kent, Surrey, Sussex, the South Midlands, and the Western Counties are still reported unfit for motor traffic.—British Wireless.

Windsor Grounds Flooded

London, Jan. 3.

The Thames at Windsor is now one mile and a half wide. Windsor Castle grounds are flooded for many miles and Eton's playing fields form one lake. The swans are unable to reach their usual river feeding ground. Residents at Maidenhead are going about in punts. The water at Boulter's Lock is five feet above normal. Sounding and other villages up the stream are practically cut off. The flow of water at Toddington is 9,000,000 gallons approaching the 1915 record.

The lowlands of Sussex, northward of Steyning, are one vast lake extending nearly to Horsham. The Adur River between Beeding and Crundish is two miles wide. Some roads in Kent are three feet under water and many villages are isolated.

There was less rain yesterday and the floods are slightly receding, but a further depression in the Atlantic threatening more rain.—Reuter's Special.

Sinclair has been appointed head of the party, but there are rumours that Mr. Lloyd George is angling for the leadership, in which connection the fact that a few days after the election he announced that he and his family would drop their "Independence" and sit with the Opposition Liberals.

The future of Mr. Lloyd George, Britain's war-time premier, who is a mystery. Many believe that he is trying to stage a come-back.

Early this year he launched his "New Deal" programme, calling for the expenditure of vast sums of money on roads, railways and the land as a means of curing unemployment. He offered it to the Government, which, after a lengthy study, turned it down as unfeasible, and because it had already adopted any of his ideas that were any good. Had the Government accepted the "New Deal" Mr. Lloyd George would have been assured of a Government post.

The little Welshman's next move was to start the "Council of Action" to start Peace and Reconstruction." It was supposed to be non-partisan, but its platform bore a striking resemblance to the "New Deal" programme, and practically every member of its executive was a Liberal.

When the general election came along, the Council threatened to put 40 candidates in the field. They did not materialize, but the Council issued a three-point questionnaire to all candidates, irrespective of party, catechizing them as to their support or non-support of the Council's programme.

Sixty-seven of the candidates, including Conservatives, Labourites, and all Opposition Liberals, who supported the Council's programme, were elected to Parliament, and recently Lloyd George was chosen as Chairman of this group in the House of Commons.

While on ordinary questions, such as foreign policy, they will follow the dictates of their party leaders, on questions which affect the Council's programme, they are pledged to vote for them, whether against their own party or not.

Some observers see these 67 "councilites" with the seventeen Opposition Liberals and Mr. Lloyd George's four Independents as the nucleus of an eventual moderate left-wing party, headed, of course, by Mr. Lloyd George.

Government Reshuffles. As for the Government, itself, it has seen two comprehensive reshuffles during the year, one as the result of the general election, and the other last June.

The change-about in June was caused principally by the desire to relieve Mr. Ramsay MacDonald of as much work as possible because of his impaired eyesight, and also to bring Mr. Anthony Eden into the Cabinet.

The changes made after the election were caused by the death of Sir Oswald Mond and his son, Malcolm, also a Cabinet minister.

The June change, which was the first except for some minor appointments, since the National Government was formed in 1931, saw Mr. Stanley Baldwin and Mr. MacDonald exchange portfolios. Mr. Baldwin became Prime Minister and First Lord of Treasury, and Mr. MacDonald became Lord President of the Council.

The chief changes after the election were: Lord Londonderry dropped as Lord Privy Seal and his place taken by Viscount Halifax, whose post as Minister for War was given to Mr. Alfred Duff Cooper; and Mr. Malcolm MacDonald changed posts with Mr. J. H. Thomas, becoming Dominions Minister and "Jimmy" taking the Colonial portfolio.

There have also been considerable changes among the junior ministers and under-secretaries.—United Press.

SETTLEMENT OF ANGLO-IRISH "WAR"

AN ASTONISHING STORY

KITE-FLYING INSPIRED BY DE VALERA?

Astonishing proposals for a settlement of Anglo-Irish differences, published in the Irish Independent recently, were officially denied in Dublin. In London, however, the proposals were regarded as "kite-flying," possibly inspired by Mr. De Valera. No such scheme is likely to be entertained by the British Government, though it is considered not improbable that new negotiations for a settlement may be instituted shortly.

The Irish Independent states that the proposals are:

"A Republican form of Government for the Free State and a Treaty of Association with the Commonwealth."

"A scheme for an association between the Free State and the six counties which, it is hoped, will eventually lead to a Federal Association."

"The creation of a moderately substantial Free State Navy."

"The evacuation of British forces from Queenstown and Berehaven ports."

"No Governor-General and no oath of Allegiance."

The Irish Independent adds: "The plan would be based on the Free State undertaking to provide and maintain a Navy of a certain strength, the headquarters of which would probably be Cork Harbour."

"Great Britain would, it is said, be prepared to sell the Free State the necessary warships. About 10 ships are suggested as necessary to constitute a small squadron. Two may be of the cruiser class and the balance destroyers and torpedo craft."

"The price, it is stated, would run into a substantial sum: a figure of £5,000,000 was mentioned. On the purchase of the ships the British, it is said, would be prepared to wipe out the debt which, they say, the Free State owes them."

£1,000,000 A YEAR

"The Free State would maintain the ships and train the crews. The cost of paying interest and sinking fund on the loan to be raised to pay for the ships may be around £250,000 per annum, while the cost of maintaining the new Navy may be £750,000 per annum—a total of possibly £1,000,000 per annum."

"Under the scheme outlined the British would be prepared to withdraw from the Free State ports."

"On the political side, so the story goes, Britain would be prepared to sign a new Treaty of Association between the Free State and herself which would amount to an alliance—freely entered into—for offensive and defensive purposes for the protection of this country against foreign invasion."

"Under the new association with Britain, according to the reports, Free State would assume a Republican form of Government. There would be no Governor-General and no Oath of Allegiance."

"The scheme would be based on an elaboration of Document No. 2, which President De Valera proposed in 1922 as something he would be prepared to consider as an alternative to the Treaty."

"That document provided for a form of what was described as 'external association' with the British Commonwealth."

MYSTERY OF ORIGIN

While it is difficult to ascertain exactly how much there is in this story, inquiries go to show that it cannot be dismissed out of hand as mere rumour. That some such scheme is in existence is fairly certain, but whether it originated with the Free State Government or the British Government or, more probably, partly from both, cannot be ascertained.

DUKE OF KENT REPLIES 'FOR MY SON'

The Duke of Kent replied for his son—"who is not of age to reply for himself to the kind things you have said about him"—at a dinner of the Latin-American Society at the Savoy Hotel in London recently.

"At least," added the Duke, with a smile, "he is not of an age to reply in a manner intelligible to us dull-witted grown-ups."

EMPIRE HOLIDAY FOR THE PRINCE'S JUBILEE ON JULY 13

Arrangements are now complete for the celebration of the Jubilee of the Prince of Wales on July 13 next year.

As soon as the Court comes out of mourning they will be submitted for official approval.

It is hoped to have July 13 named "Prince of Wales Day," and proclaimed a holiday throughout the Empire.

On Sunday, July 12, the Prince will travel to Carnarvon Castle, where he was invested as Prince of Wales, to receive the congratulations of the Welsh counties, the Welsh civil authorities, and Mr. D. Lloyd George, who was Minister-in-attendance in 1911.

School children from all parts of Wales will be there.

The Prince will visit the University of Wales, and there will be a banquet in the evening, when it is probable that the Prince will broadcast to the Empire.

There will be a bonfire on Snowdon at night.

The next two days will be spent in visits to Cardiff, Swansea, and other industrial centres.

In London the day will be observed by the firing of salutes, and both Houses of Parliament will offer an Address of congratulation to the King and Queen.

When the Prince returns from Wales he will receive addresses from the High Commissioners, the Diplomatic Corps, and the City of London. He will be entertained to a State luncheon at the Guildhall.

It is probable that there will be two State balls at Buckingham Palace.

But these, and roughly 1,000 more standard items, are the subject of 8,000 tests a year in the textile testing room of the laboratories alone.

In the wear-testing machine strips of fabric are rubbed backwards and forwards by a series of carborundum pads. Each rub represents a passenger taking his seat. If the strip wears through before 14,000 rubs the material is rejected.

In the paint exposure laboratory a "Weatherometer" accurately reproduces twelve months' outdoor weather conditions—sunlight, rain, fog, heat and cold—in five weeks.

8,000 TESTS A YEAR

Problem: How often can you sit down in a railway carriage before you wear out the seat?

Answer: 14,000 times.

This is one of the many scientific problems solved at the new L.M.S. research laboratory opened at Derby yesterday by Lord Rutherford of Nelson.

The opening ceremony was unusual. A special train brought 150 guests from London.

You might not think that typewriter ribbons, the wicks of stationmasters' lamps, porters' trousers, or the cord of luggage nets were matters of scientific research to make railway travelling safer, cheaper and more comfortable.

Because she had two loves, Stella Williams, 17, was held in Oakland, Calif. One was for Pete Jones, 24. She ran away with him. The other love was for Baby Jimmy Fox, 2 years old, whose nursemaid she had been in Phoenix, Arizona. When police arrested the couple the baby was with them.

OWING to the heavy fall in exchange rates—resulting in an increase in the price of malt, hops, coal, etc., in local currency and a rise in duty, we are reluctantly compelled to increase the prices of H.B. BEER as above, as from the 1st January, 1936.

These prices represent, however, an addition of only 20 per cent. on pints and 18 per cent. on quarts, as against a drop of 45 per cent. in exchange rates since the old prices were fixed.

We are satisfied that there is no better, purer beer than H. B. obtainable in the Far East, and we ask all who have not yet tried it to do so now.

"EDEN ISLE" SURVIVOR IS RETURNING TO SCENE OF HER ORDEAL

Secret Of Missing Man

RIDDLE OF SOUTH SEAS MAY BE SOLVED

BERLIN, DEC. 28. FRAU DORA KOERWIN, SURVIVOR OF THE AMAZING "EDEN ISLE" EXPERIMENT IN THE GALAPAGOS IS TO-DAY CONSIDERING A RETURN TO THE SCENE OF HER ORDEAL.

She made this disclosure here this afternoon. At the same time, she threw fresh light on the latest gruesome discovery—the manacled skeleton of a man—on the island which was once her home.

Frau Koerwin strongly discredited the suggestion that the skeleton is that of Robert Phillipson, the young German companion of the Baroness de Wagner, the self-styled "Empress" of the island.

"I think that this skeleton is certainly that of another young German from Dresden," she said.

"This young man refused assistance of every kind from the settlers and ventured into the interior of Santa Cruz Island in spite of the warnings of those who never saw or heard of him again.

VANISHED INTO INTERIOR

"He did not even carry a compass with him. He struck off into the interior—and vanished. We never saw or heard of him again.

"But although I am so certain that this skeleton is not Phillipson, I am equally convinced that Phillipson, too, is dead. One day perhaps his remains will be found."

It is not two years since Dr. Frederic Ritter, a German who founded the now famous nature colony on Charles Island, in the Galapagos Group, saw the pence of his domain upset by the arrival of Baroness Eloise de Wagner. The Baroness, who came from Paris, made herself "Empress" and it was said, ruled like a despot. Then, one by one, the members of the colony disappeared and have never been heard of again.

It was thought that two bodies found later were those of the Baroness and Arthur Wittmer, another member of the colony. That theory was never satisfactorily established.

"I now see the world with different eyes than when I left the island," Frau Koerwin said.

HER TASK

"But I still have my task before me. That task is to convince the world of the value of the work we did in the Galapagos. To do that I may have to return to the islands. I am not sure yet. I am a woman waiting for the facts to face me.

"For that reason I do not lay my plans too far ahead."

It is plain that Frau Koerwin is still deeply affected when Dr. Ritter is mentioned. She still bears traces, too, of the shocking hardships which she endured in the South Seas.

A severe illness, followed by a form of paralysis, has left her with a limp.

"Since my return, I have spent my time quietly in the study of animals. I came to understand them in the Galapagos, and I still continue those studies," she said. "Soon I hope to lecture abroad on Dr. Ritter's life and the ideals which he attempted to put into practice in the Galapagos."

Will These Elephants Forget?

UGANDA is making war on elephant herds that wander into the populated areas.

The annual report of the Uganda Protectorate for 1934 says:—

"The outstanding accomplishment of the year has been the successful reduction, with a loss of at least 500 animals, of the vast elephant herds in the extensive uninhabited regions in Buruli and North Bulemezi, in the Mengo district.

"These elephants, now totaling some 4,500, have been allowed to breed unchecked for the last ten years, and there was an increasing tendency for them to thrust further south into populous Buganda."

"SEVERELY PUNISHED"

The report adds that operations organised by an expert game ranger led to the severe punishment of the herds "before they had time to realise what was happening."

The elephants were driven back. But will they forget the rich lands of the south?

Elephant wastage for the year, the report says, was 2,500, but there are still 20,000 in Uganda.

And every one of them has a memory.

HIS SONG WENT ROUND THE WORLD

Author Of "Daddy" Is Dead

ARTHUR HENRY BEHREND is dead. He died in London this month and nobody knew.

Yet he was the composer of one of the greatest ballads ever written.

"Daddy," his masterpiece, sold by the million.

You may remember it. It went like this:—

Lay your head on my shoulder, Daddy,

Turn your face to the west."

It went all over the world. Mr. Behrend made nearly 24,000, despite the fact that he sold his royalties outright when it had only been running for a short time.

BALLAD WRITING

Mr. Behrend kept up an active interest in music and ballad writing to the end of his life.

He was one of the oldest and most popular members of the Savage Club.

His grandfather, Balfe, composed the famous opera, "The Bohemian Girl."

MOTHER AND SON IN PARLIAMENT

Among the early arrivals in London for the opening session of the newly-elected British parliament were Lady Nancy Astor, now a veteran "commoner," and her son and newly-elected member of parliament, Hon. William Waldorf Astor, both shown above.

Meet the X Brothers

"X.Twenty" and "X.Twenty-one"—great world-explorers and super-narrators!

After going through a series of thrilling adventures at sea and on land, in the U.S.A., in the Far East and in Russia, in the course of which they were parted more than once, they found each other in Paris, where they are having a merry time.

We have now received word to the effect that they have embarked for "India," so they ought to be here soon!

Who are these famous globe-trotters who fascinate everyone with whom they come in contact? Please watch for our next communication in this space!

THE EXAMINATION SYSTEM

A problem which is of interest to educationists and parents in all parts of the Empire, Hongkong included, is at the moment being enquired into at Home by a special committee, namely, the school examination question. According to Sir Michael Sadler, who is chairman of the committee, the evidence so far collected has shaken confidence in the reliability of the customary tests, indicating that chance plays too large a part in the award of marks. What is needed, according to Sir Michael, is that the system shall be mended, and not ended. This question is one which has frequently arisen in the discussion of education, and comment has been by no means confined to educationists. Business men have a practical interest in the question, and they too are swift to say what experience has taught them in the handling of staffs. Even at this stage of the controversy it is clear that the examination system as it stands has few supporters. Examination of some sort there must be, it is argued, but the system must be altered so as to constitute a surer guarantee of the right sort of capacity, having regard to the calling which the youth has to pursue. As one industrialist puts it: what is needed is to devise a practical plan for steering the right men into the right jobs. There's the rub! A person may easily pass examinations and yet be quite unfitted for the profession into which he has gained admittance. The truth seems to be that we cannot "make" a man anything. Nature had her own plan at the beginning, and satisfactory results can be reached only by going on the path which she has laid down. What business men cry out for are tests that really test on matters which touch real life and living. A not uncommon experience is that youths who have done brilliantly in examinations do no better than—or maybe not so well as—others who have not that distinction. There seems to be such a thing as examination psychology. One youth can go through an examination without turning a hair. Another, quite as able, never appears to advantage in that ordeal. Yet when they come to tackle the realities of life, the latter may make by far the better showing. It is obvious, however, that there Again, on the East Coast of Africa, in 1905, a German liner was taking in ground-nuts as ballast to be made into "Colonial Ground-nut Oil" in Germany and readily sold as such. The information was volunteered, whether true or not, that ground-nuts from the neighbouring British colony were consigned to Genoa, and there made into "olive" oil for the British market.

NOTES OF THE DAY

SOMEBODY BLUNDERED

In every war that ever was fought there have been costly blunders on the side of victor and vanquished, and generally speaking, but for the blunders of dictators and diplomats peace might have survived most of the past crises. The greatest leaders of all time have perpetrated some of the most staggering indiscretions; but these men have remained great because their mistakes occurred when nothing vital was involved. A commander of an army, such as that serving under Badoglio in East Africa, can be forgiven if there occur errors in calculation or judgment on the part of his officers from time to time, because it is humanly impossible for one man to control with perfect synchronisation the whole unwieldy machine of troops and transport. But when mistakes do crop up, as they must, the man at the head of things is apt to carry the blame. For instance, it will probably be remembered against Marshal Badoglio that his army bombed a Swedish Red Cross mission during the fighting of December, 1935. Somebody blundered; there can be no doubt of that. Not the most rabid anti-Italian would be likely to suggest seriously that the attack on the Ethiopian wounded was deliberate brutality. For no one with any grain of reason would order such a massacre, knowing the repercussions it would cause. No matter how strong the feeling against anyone helping the enemy—even the wounded enemy—no commander in his senses would instruct his airmen to bomb the sacred Red Cross, and send his fliers back to the attack with machine-guns when the bombs had already wrecked the unit. There is no sense in it. Where is the value in spending ammunition on men already out of action? Argue it that way if you wish. It won't add up to any other answer than that we have suggested. The bombing of the Swedish Red Cross, the machine-gunning of the Ethiopian wounded in the care of the Swedish doctors, was a horrible blunder. Even so, it cannot be forgiven. Somewhere there was lack of judgment. Already we have seen the pardonable indignation of Sweden. There will be a stiffening of feeling against Italy along the whole political front; and as for Ethiopia, the blunder, which appears a crime, will never be forgiven or forgotten. Certainly not as long as Italian soldiers march on Ethiopian soil. An apology, an explanation, an admission of error, on the part of the Italian command, might mitigate the world's feeling in this matter. An attitude of defiance, a show of impotence or a refusal to accept reproof will only aggravate the reaction and bring an added complication to the perilous state of Europe's political health.

must be tests of some nature in school-life; the point is whether specifically-set examinations represent the best method, and, if so, what the nature and scope of these shall be. The committee at Home which is now considering the subject is apparently making a most exhaustive investigation of the whole matter. Its report will be awaited with widespread interest.

few people caring, either for the native growers of cocoa and palm oil or the white producers of coffee and sisal. Some of the most essential services, such as research, have been grievously cut because they are not immediately productive of revenue. Nobody cared, even when locusts and drought were added to the catastrophic fall in prices which they shared with the rest of the world.

Things are better now; not well by any means, for public and private reserves have been eaten up and taxation is high, but they are past the worst; and the Colonies have pulled through almost entirely by their own efforts.

DOES not this call for recognition and for the compliment of considerably more thought and consideration? After all, their fate has to be decided at Westminster, and the unofficial immigrants and the natives alike are denied any share in shaping their destinies. They pay the piper, but may not call the tune.

It is suggested, for consideration, that the whole of our Colonial system needs overhauling, and that if the new Parliament shirks this task it will be unworthy of its stewardship. The present system is archaic and is not working satisfactorily because its construction and machinery were planned in mid-Victorian and late Victorian days and do not suit modern conditions. We actually went to war in Africa nearly forty years ago on the grounds that certain white immigrants had no say in their government or taxation, and that the native inhabitants were also at the mercy of the ruling oligarchy.

To-day in our African Colonies only Kenya and Northern Rhodesia elect members to the Legislature, and they are getting restless—like the Uilanders—because they are in a permanent minority to the Government oligarchy. Under the existing system that seems inevitable in the present stage of development. But there is no real obstacle to a new basis of rule, with degrees of local internal self-government and Imperial external control, whereby the young and virile immigrant communities could use their knowledge and experience to their own preoccupation in matters more nearly concerning us, the affairs and at the same time the Colonies have been neglected. For if at times they seem somewhat irresponsible and self-important Fund they have had to weather the depression unaided, of the system which denies this and, which is worse, with very little.

SIDE GLANCES By George Clark

"Now that they've cut your pay, darling, do you think you should smoke cigarettes so soon after making a New Year resolution that you wouldn't?"

Side by side with this, in varying degrees according to their development, native areas could also be given a start in local and internal self-government under Imperial control. It has been wisely said that Indirect Rule is not a system but an evolutionary process. It is useless, however, to say that and do nothing. Undue haste is not advocated, but further local progressive experiments are already needed.

IN tackling these problems there is bound to arise the question of grouping certain Colonies together and abolishing artificial and irksome boundaries. This is not the time for dogmatic assertion on such points, but a plea is entered that in the new Parliament now assembled, serious attention be paid to all these matters. The new Secretary of State for the Colonies should assert the importance of the post entrusted to him and make Britain wake up to her responsibilities: the Colonial Office should be put "on the map" once more.

It is not a party matter; it is a duty and a responsibility shared by all, and it will be a grave indictment of our country if the whole of our Colonial problems do not receive adequate consideration early in the lifetime of this Parliament. There are members on both sides of the House who can help to solve them, one in particular sitting on the Opposition Benches who has great experience of London ruling itself while being subject to the laws of Britain. The parallel is not exact, but it illustrates the idea.

Since the War the status of the Dominions has completely changed: that of the Colonies remains unaltered, not because it is satisfactory, but because no one in the Colonies can initiate a change, and the Imperial Parliament has not done it for them. Our history shows clearly how much better it is to take well-considered steps in time rather than wait until reforms have to be conceded in order to maintain or to restore peace.

BULLS AND INNERS

Cheer up! Only 355 days to Christmas!

The man who took a flying jump at a ferry and landed in the harbour in the early hours of Wednesday, now probably realises the dangers of Leap Year.

The man who swallowed a thimble with his Christmas pudding, is, we understand, only sew-sew!

In spite of the paucity of mistletoe, most parties were just the berries.

The latest Americanism is "I wouldn't know!" Most of them didn't over the New Year.

Auntie Caustic thought that a rumour was the occupant of a small Kowloon flat.

MacWhirter started again on January First! Quite a good resolution.

A certain husband's treatment of an over-gay Lotliario was a forceful example of first-footing.

Hongkong now has an Urban Council. How distUrban!

We hear of a man who swallowed a wish-bone during the Festive Season. This is carrying the game too far!

Some bachelor messes certainly were!

It is denied that the Hongkong dollar will descend to the Shanghai level. Personally, we wish it were a little more stuck-up!

We hear of a certain Peak youngster who ate a $50 note on New Year's morning. By now he should have more cents!

The Horticultural Show is to take place in March. Pot plant markets will be active for the next couple of months.

We suppose they call it Leap Year because it makes bachelors jumpy.

CINEMA NEWS NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Nothing can stop "Broadway Melody of 1936" from being a box office. It's terrific entertainment. Crammed with laughs and dancing, but what dancing! Eleanor Powell undoubtedly is a film name to conjure with. Her personality, looks and ability. In addition to this she trots out a brand of tap dancing and ballet work the like of which has not been seen on the screen heretofore. Jack Benny does an excellent job as a Broadway columnist. Up near the front is Sid Silver, who in addition to his contribution as one of the writers, makes it tough going for Benny. Silver displayed a dead-pan brand of comedy acting that pictures can use. John Considine has given the picture class production throughout. There are a dozen dance routines, all class. June Knight does two routines, one with Nick Long, Jr., and one solo. Vilma and Buddy Ebsen contribute two of their standard routines. Eleanor Powell does three, one unaccompanied that is tops. Brown and Freed have contributed five musical numbers: "On a Sunday Afternoon," "Sing Before Breakfast," "I've a Feeling You're Foolin'," "Broadway Rhythm," and "You Are My Lucky Star." All are good tunes with the last one standing best chance of getting into hit class. There isn't a bad performance in the picture. Bob Taylor gives a nice sustained performance as the young producer. June Knight is a good selection as the heavy. The Ebsens look like nice comedy bits for pictures. Frances Langford's work is confined to singing one number which she does in good style. Una Merkel is excellent as stenographer. Harry Stockwell makes a convincing editor and Robert Wildhack's snoring bit is one of the outstanding spots in the picture. Roy Del Ruth's direction keeps the picture going at a fast pace and is responsible for a great portion of the entertainment values. He deserves particular credit for his excellent handling of Miss Powell on her screen debut. Dance routines by Dave Gould are all novel and original, with his staging of the numbers always in keeping with the story. Albertina Rasch stages one ballet number, the choreography of which should be a pushover for those not too friendly toward ballet dancing. Artistic are the settings by Cedric Gibbons and the photography by Charles Roscher. The film will be screened at the King's and Alhambra Theatres from to-day.

"Blossom Time"

"Blossom Time" the story of which is a new version of the life of Franz Schubert, presents in the title role the famous "Golden Voiced" tenor, Richard Tauber, who, with side whiskers and (having pocketed his famous monocle) a pair of specially made spectacles similar to those worn by Schubert in 1828, bears a most remarkable resemblance to the famous composer. Tauber, who prefers to sing and talk in German, has already made five talkies in Germany. "Blossom Time," which opens tomorrow at the Queen's Theatre, is a big picture, set in grand style, no care, artistry or expense has been spared to capture the spirit and fascinating atmosphere in old Vienna. Paul Stein the Director has excelled, and touches of genius are revealed in the manner in which many of the effects have been procured.

"Scarlet Pimpernel"

"The Scarlet Pimpernel" leaves a critic vainly groping for superlatives, longing to find one that has not been used in value by its misuse in advertisements. For this new Alexander Korda production, presented this week at the Star Theatre, is unquestionably the finest British picture of this or any other year, and probably deserves the prize for the best film produced anywhere during 1935. It merits superlatives of the highest value. Leslie Howard's performance is a sheer delight, and by far the finest he has ever contributed to the screen. The foppish London clubman and the domineering Pimpernel are both portrayed by Howard with incomparable polish, charm and resource. The settings—in which one detects, but only with difficulty, the magic hand of Ned Mann in support of Vincent Korda—are consistently fine; and the attention to detail in remarkable in such scenes as the Grenville Ball, the outdoor boxing ring, and the guillotine in Paris and Boulogne. The rest of the cast is extremely competent—Merle Oberon is a delightful lady Blakeney, Nigel Bruce a realistic Prince Regent, and Raymond Massey, sinister but real, is ideally cast as the villain Chauvelin. Altogether, this is a picture which no one must fail to see, even though they lag, borrow or steal the price of admission.

"Escape Me Never"

It is curious that although Glamour, with a capital G, has long been the prime requisite of Almodon's darling, Elisabeth Bergner, whom critics and fans have taken to their hearts with one great sweeping gesture, is anything but a Glamour Girl. The little Austrian stage favorite, who comes to the King's Theatre on Wednesday in a film version of "Escape Me Never," the Margaret Kennedy play in which she scored a sensation on both the New York and London stages, has secured little comment in the Beauty and Fashion pages. Instead the critics and the public of five continents rave about her acting, which in her true crowning glory. If you were to pass her on the street, you would very likely be at a loss to point out anything suggestive of an ability to send cosmopolitan theatregoers into raves. You would see a little girl—about five feet one—with the slight, undeveloped figure of a boy. From under her simple hat would peer the face of a frightened child—large, round black eyes, with gold points in them, glowing in the firm white oval of her face. Her gold hair is very straight and is innocent of the artful touch of the friseur or the coiffeur. Clipped in a longish bob it is swept straight back from the broad forehead. Sports clothes in some subdued but becoming colour would complete the unspectacular picture. But on the stage or screen another Bergner greets her adoring fans. The child-like girl has been replaced by an actress of unfathomable emotional depths. The frightened eyes, the voice, the features, the very lines of her figure have taken on the shape and tone and quality of the woman who is creating before the camera. Alluring contracts are proffered by every major motion picture studio in the world. Extravagant temptations are offered by stage and radio. Bergner remained simple, unmoved, unchanged with the simplicity of true greatness. A very young veteran of the stage, she made her debut at seven. She played Shakespeare's heroine's Ophelia, Rosalind and Viola, with great success in her native Vienna as well as in Germany. At eighteen she was a Reinhardt protégée. It was Paul Czinner, the distinguished director, who persuaded her to try pictures. Her first film, "Nisi," was not a great success, but it stimulated her interest in the screen. Together she and Czinner made "Dreaming Lips," "Ariane" and the triumphant "Catherine the Great." Czinner, who is Miss Bergner's husband, also directed "Escape Me Never." This film production was made by B. and D. for release through United Artists, with many of the principals of the London and Broadway cast, including Hugh Sinclair, Griffith Jones and Leon Quartermaine.

"The Last Outpost" Hollywood has its own Foreign Legion. From the far corners of the earth, soldiers, adventurers and explorers have come. Known as technical advisers and directors, they keep an eye out for possible anachronisms and furnish writer and director authentic information concerning customs, terrain and dress of foreign locales. In this class is Captain Jamil Hassan, technical director for Paramount's "The Last Outpost," now running at the Queen's Theatre, with Gary Grant, Claude Rains and Gertrude Michael, who served with the Turkish Army during the World War. Descendant of an ancient line Hassan grew up in Oriental splendour on his father's estate in Turkey. He is familiar with Turkey, Armenia, Morocco and almost all Asia Minor. He was an excellent help in filming "The Last Outpost," a drama of the burning sands and hell-infested jungles of Arabia. The story of the film is a fast-moving romance of two men, bosom friends, who become mortal enemies through the love of the same girl. After facing many unseen dangers they are brought together again in a most unusual climax, revealing their intense sacrifice in this steam-ing, mind-killing, jungle-hell.

MAKE-UP HINTS

By MAX FACTOR

That nippy tang is in the air and Winter breezes whisper that the wise and lovely ones should pay attention to their skin before frolicking out-of-doors.

Winter faces, chapped and dry, need the benefit of a gentle skin lubricant like Skin and Tissue Cream. Applied to the face daily, it restores the oils dried by the winds and keeps the skin soft and lovely.

Lip Pomade, used instead of Lipstick is another Winter aid that keeps the chapped lip menace well in hand and, at the same time let you look your alluring best.

Powder Foundation is another asset for faces kissed by winds and breezes. Come rain, storm, sleet or snow, it stands by your face—protecting your skin and giving your make-up a dewy-fresh appearance.

I thank you for reading my weekly series of articles under above-caption during last year, and in this issue, I take pleasure in wishing the "Factories" a prosperous New Year.

"Cosmetics of the Stars"CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
LESSON. SERMONFIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, HONGKONG

The subject of the Lesson Sermon in all churches of Christ, Scientist, to-morrow, January 5, will be: GOD. The Golden Text will be: "Among the gods there is none like unto thee, O Lord; . . . For thou art great, and doest wondrous things: thou art God alone." (Psalms 86:9).

Among others the following citations from the Bible will be read: "And I saw a new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea. And I heard a great voice out of heaven saying, Behold the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God. And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away." (Revelation 21:1, 3 and 4).

The Lesson Sermon will also include the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "In Revelation 21:1 we read:—

"And I saw a new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea."

"This testimony of Holy Writ sustains the fact in Science, that the heavens and earth to one human consciousness, are spiritual, while to another, the unilluminated human mind, the vision is material."

"Accompanying this scientific consciousness was another revelation, even the declaration from heaven, supreme harmony, that God, the divine Principle of harmony, is ever with man, and they are His people."

"This is Scriptural authority for concluding that such a recognition of being is, and has been, possible to men in this present state of existence, that we can become conscious, here and now, of a cessation of death, sorrow, and pain. This is indeed a foretaste of absolute Christian Science." (Pages 572 and 573).

SALARY REDUCTION

CUTS TO BE IMPOSED ON CIVIL SERVANTS

The long-threatened cut of Government servants' salaries is now become an unwelcome reality for some thousands of Hongkong people for, dating from January 1, there will be a reduction in the salaries of both sterling and dollar paid employees.

Two days ago the Government circularised the departments to the effect that it was considering the imposition of a temporary levy on both dollar and sterling salaries from January 1 owing to the unfavourable financial position. Full details of the proposed reductions will be announced in due course.

While no definite information as to the extent of the cut can be obtained until the Secretary of State has expressed approval of one or other of the schemes which the local authorities have put forward, it would seem most probable that the reduction will take the form of a substantial cut on the highest officials' salaries and less severe cuts on other servants on a graduated basis.

FORECAST OF COLONY'S INTERPORT SOCCER XI

S. China Athletic Will Release Players If Needed

SEVERAL MEN SAID TO BE EARMARKED

Lawton To Play Centre-Half?

(By "Veritas")

A week ago we had scarce given a thought to Interport football. Now we find the subject thrust prominently before us, "all of a sudden like". In less than three weeks the game will have been played, won and lost, or of course possibly drawn. Sometime in the very near future (the Telegraph will let you know when), the selectors are going to choose trial teams. On Sunday week the first and only trial match will be played. The following week we shall see the finally selected team oppose the Rest. After that we shall have to sit back and wait for the result.

In the meantime some not uninteresting things have been brought to my notice. Firstly that South China Athletic Association are not imposing a definite ban on their players should any of them be selected and can get away to Shanghai.

Secondly that there is a distinct likelihood of several South China players being invited to join the Interport team.

Thirdly that the selectors have already a shrewd notion as to the final composition of the teams.

This information naturally has not been given me officially, but I had it.

HE'S A "CERT"

George Rodger, many times "capped" is almost certain to play in goal for Hongkong against Shanghai, from a very reliable source. In short the following team will quite possibly be asked to appear against the Rest of the Colony on January 18.

THIS MAY BE THE TEAM

Rodger (Club); Swain (East Lanes) and C. Pile (Police); Leung Wing-chui (S. China "A"), Lawton (East Lanes) and Lee Kwok-wai (S. China "A"); Teo Kwai-shing (S. China "A"); B. Gosano (Recreo), Elliott (Club); Tam Kong-pak (S. China "A") and Tay Qua-liang (S. China "A").

This cannot be regarded as definitely the Interport team, but I know among those players will be found the nucleus of it. I think it can be said that Rodger, Swain, Lawton and Lee Kwok-wai are the five Chinese players, are ear-marked. Pile is by no means a certainty. Sydney Strange is a strong rival.

It is possible too that Ward will be a candidate for the inside right berth and Ernest Strange may have claims for Tam's position.

WILL LAWTON BE FIT?

Lawton is ill in hospital at the time of writing. I do not know how seriously, or whether it will prejudice his prospects. In any case I feel that the selectors cannot ignore Boltrae in their deliberations. He has played consistently good football this season, and as a constructive pivot has no peers in Hongkong at the present time.

Elliott has leapt into such striding form these last three or four matches that he only needs to keep it up to make himself fairly safe for selection. Somehow I think the defence is going to cause the selectors some hard thinking (unless they have already done that). For example Blackburn of the Police would make a useful man at right back, while Kesting the Fusiliers left back can be ranked as good as any of his contemporaries. The only certainty discernible at the moment is George Rodger in goal. But if Leung Wing-chui and Lee Kwok-wai can obtain leave and Lawton is fit, I do not think there is much doubt about the composition of the half back line. And a very good one at that even though my own vote of confidence goes to Boltrae for centre-half.

ANOTHER TEST "SCENE"

S. AFRICA REFUSE TO BAT

Capetown, Jan. 3. There was another "scene" in the third Test match between South Africa and Australia resumed here to-day. Torrential rain delayed the start until 2.45 p.m., but the Australian captain wanted to start at 2 o'clock.

A. D. Nourse, the South African skipper disagreed and said they could not be expected to bat on a sticky pitch which, if it had been adequately covered, would have been as plumb as that on which the Australians batted yesterday.

Finally the umpires were called in and consulted and it was decided the wicket was playable at 2.45.

The Australians immediately declared their first innings closed at the overnight scores of 362 for 8. Bowling figures revealed that Balaskas had been the most successful of the South African trundlers, taking four wickets for 120 runs in 38 overs of which one was a maiden.

Crisp took 1 for 30, Langton 1 for 34 and Robertson 2 for 75.

S. AFRICANS COLLAPSE

It was fine and warm when South Africa opened their innings but the wicket was sticky. Two thousand people watched the play which continued without a tea interval.

South Africa were dismissed for 102, Nourse being the only player to master the bowling. He scored a magnificent 44 not out.

Grimmett was again the chief cause of the South African collapse. The goosy bowler had the following figures:

	O	M	R	Wkts
Fleetwood Smith	17	4	32	5
Bowling captured 2 for 21, McCabe 1 for 9 and O'Reilly 1 for 24.

Following on 260 runs in arrears, South Africa scored 11 without loss, and they will have a very hard struggle to avoid defeat.—Reuter.

INTERPORT HOCKEY

Shanghai Programme Arranged

Arrangements have been concluded by the Shanghai Ladies Hockey Association to welcome the Hongkong women's Interport side, which is to come here towards the end of January says the N.C.D. News. Three games are on the programme for the visitors, these being as follows:

January 24.—Hongkong v. Sports Girls Club, Hongkew Park, 11 a.m.

January 25.—Hongkong v. Shanghai, Canidrome, 11 a.m.

January 27.—Hongkong v. The Rest, Hongkew Park, 3 p.m.

The Sports Girls Club has the honour of playing the first game in view of their winning the league this year. Owing to the bad weather in recent weeks it has been found impossible to make much progress in the selection of a Shanghai side. To date the committee in charge has picked thirty girls from whom it is proposed to form a team. The holidays were to have been used for the necessary trial matches, but weather again forced cancellation. It has, therefore, been arranged to hold the first trial on Sunday next, January 6.

Teo Kwai-shing, Tam Kong-pak and Tay Qua-liang, three South China Athletic players who, it is forecast, will be invited to play for the Colony against Shanghai in the football Interport.

VINES TO COME EAST?

TENNIS PLAYERS PLAN TOUR

KINSEY PRIME MOVER

A troupe of professional tennis players wants to go to Manila for exhibition matches next August and September. Capt. Norman Cook of Manila recently received a letter from Howard Kinsey former amateur star to the effect that he, Elsworth Vines, George Lott and either Lester Stiefen or Keith Gledhill, are planning a barnstorming tour of the Orient next summer and want to include the Philippines in their itinerary. Capt. Cook referred the matter to the Philippine Amateur Athletic Federation but the Federation cannot take up the proposal since the trip is a purely professional venture. The matter, however, has been turned over to Francisco Limingen, Manila boxing promoter who is interested in the projected trip of tennis professionals.

BIG DRAWBACK

The professional troupe plans to play a series of games in Japan, China, the Philippines and possibly Java. Although the trip to Manila is favoured by the promoters, the big drawback will be the fact that August and September are still rainy months and the holding of exhibition matches during those months will be problematical.

All the players who plan to come to Manila were at one time ranking amateur stars. Most of them later joined Bill Tilden's troupe of professional players. Howard Kinsey was at one time No. 8 ranking singles player and No. 1 ranking doubles player with his brother. Recently he was

L. Goldman and Miss R. Hancock (holders) yesterday won their first match in the Colony's open mixed doubles tennis championship and at the same time entered the semi-finals. They defeated G. C. Burnett and Miss Olive Dalziel, last surviving K.C.C. pair at the U.S.R.C. in straight sets by scores of 6-2, 6-0.

The losers offered spirited opposition for the first half a dozen games, but thereafter Burnett lost control over the ball, and his confidence, with the result that the match was over in a little more than half an hour.

HAPHAZARD

Burnett failed to reproduce the form which was so largely responsible for their first round success. He could not hold his service which appeared to upset the rest of his game. On the ground he was rather haphazard and he could not obtain mastery over the ball on the volley.

It was Miss Dalziel who was the stender and more effective of the two. She pulled out several nice looking passing shots on the forehand as Goldman went in to volley, while her return of service was excellent.

Possibly it is not fair to judge the form of Goldman and Miss Hancock on this match in as much as that most of the time they were able to take things fairly comfortably. Nevertheless Goldman did not show up very well in the first set and made a series of glaring errors at the net.

Later he improved enormously driving and volleying his way to a succession of spectacular points. Miss Hancock played reliable tennis from the baseline her forehand drives being nicely angled.

On the whole, however, it was a match in which steadiness beat spasmodic brilliance.

THE SEMI FINALS

The semi-final encounters will be as follows:

Goldman and Miss Hancock v. Captain Milne and Miss Saville.

H. D. Rumlsh and Mrs. Chiu Chiu-chiu v. W. C. Hung and Mrs. Wilson.

The dates for these games, which will be played at the Chinese Recreation Club will be announced later. More than likely the matches will be played sometime next week.

Manager of Tilden's troupe on the Pacific Coast, Vines headed the U. S. amateur ranking list in 1931 and 1932 and is now regarded the greatest player in active competition. Les Stiefen was No. 8 ranking amateur in 1933 and No. 6 last year before he turned professional. Recently he announced he would take an professional boxing as a career. George Lott was No. 6 ranking player last year. Keith Gledhill was No. 8 on the amateur ranking list in 1931, 1932 and No. 9 in 1933.

AUSTRALIANS FOR MANILA

CHALLENGE TO GAVIA

Manila, Jan. 1.

Two youthful Australian tennis aces are coming to Manila to represent the Australian Lawn Tennis Association in the 1936 All Comers tournament which is scheduled to be held in February at the Rizal Memorial Tennis Stadium under the auspices of the Philippine Islands Lawn Tennis Association.

D. Thompson and A. H. Hassett have already accepted the nomination of the A. L. T. A. and are planning to take the S. S. Tunda for Manila, which is scheduled to leave Sydney on Jan. 11. If their sailing plan materializes they will be here during the first week of February, just in time for the series.

Turnbull and Bromwick, No. 4 and No. 6 ranking players, respectively, of Australia were the original choices of the Sydney selectors to be sent to Manila, but due to engagements they have previously arranged they were forced to decline.

LEWIS CARSON ALSO

Japanese and Chinese net stars have also signified their intention of competing in the coming tourney. Gordon Lum, veteran player of Shanghai, Khoo Sin Kio of Java, Carson, Shanghai champion, are all contemplating to come to Manila for the series. Khoo Hoo Hye and Dennis Chien who were here lately are also thinking to come back to compete. V. T. Wong who was crowned 1935 Metropolitan champion may not return for the competition. It was learned he was called for active service in the Chinese army.

FOOTBALL VENUE CHANGE

The third division football league match between the European Police and the Royal Welsh Fusiliers will be played to-morrow on the Chatham Road ground at 4 p.m. instead of the Kowloon Football Club ground. The change is made on account of the Lai Wah Cup match between the Army and Navy which will take place at the Kowloon Football Club ground.

LEADERSHIP CHALLENGE IN MIXED DOUBLES

BUT THE FIRE BRIGADE ALSO WIN

(By "Veritas")

Fire Brigade retained the leadership of the mixed double badminton league last night when they entertained and defeated Kowloon Tong by seven games to two. Although without the services of Miss M. Griffiths, the Brigade won comfortably. Both Mr. and Mrs. Shute and Fisher and Mrs. Kirkwood maintained their winning records, the two games being dropped by Anderson and Mrs. Wild.

It was an excellent achievement on the part of Leung and Mrs. White to beat this pair in the second game of the evening. Leung played extremely well, mixing his shots cleverly. The visitors were clearly disconcerted by the high lobbing of the winners and were continually "fanning" overhead smashes.

Mrs. Kirkwood was the best lady player on view, giving a particularly efficient performance against Gray and Miss Mackenzie.

C.R.C. WIN AGAIN

Even without Chan, star left handed player, the Chinese Recreation Club succeeded in beating St. Andrew's on the latter's court, taking two odd games.

W. C. Choy and Miss W. Cheung jumped into their best form to win three games for the visitors, while the other two points were scored by H. T. Woo and Miss Ulian Khoo.

Mrs. T. F. Lo was also an absentee and Mr. and Mrs. Liang could make no impression against the Saints pairs.

The defeat of E. F. Fincher and Miss M. Churn by Choy and Cheung was the most important result of the match. St. Andrew's were also without Mrs. Dawson.

ST. JOHN'S RUN RIOT

St. John's ran riot against Soldiers and Soldiers Home and finished easy winners by nine clear games. A feature of the match was the welcome return to the court after a long illness of Mr. Sprague. He played third pair with his wife for the S. and S. but was clearly not at his best.

None of the visitors managed to reach double figures in any of the games. G. A. Smith and Mrs. Barlow actually won three sets with the loss of one point.

Details of the three matches follow.

ST. JOHN'S S. AND S. HOME

G. A. Smith and Mrs. Barlow (S. and S. Home) beat Heath and Miss Dolg 2-1; beat Edwards and Mrs. Lloyd Jones 2-1; beat Mr. and Mrs. Sprague 2-0.

F. H. Kwok and Miss M. Smith (St. John's) beat Heath and Dolg 2-1; beat Edwards and Lloyd Jones 2-0; beat Sprague and Sprague 2-1.

Roland Koh and Miss McCaw (St. John's) beat Heath and Dolg 2-1; beat Edwards and Lloyd Jones 2-0; beat Sprague and Sprague 2-1.

Details of the three matches follow.

FIRE BRIGADE V. KOWLOON TONG

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. H. Shute (Fire Brigade) beat S. A. Gray and Miss Allison Mackenzie 2-1; beat P. Leung and Mrs. G. A. White 2-0; beat G. A. White and Miss M. Bryson 2-1.

J. L. Anderson and Mrs. Wild (Fire Brigade) lost to Gray and Mackenzie 3-2; lost to Leung and White 1-2; beat White and Bryson 2-0.

A. L. Fisher and Mrs. Kirkwood (Fire Brigade) beat Gray and Mackenzie 2-1; beat Leung and White 2-0; beat White and Bryson 2-1.

ST. ANDREW'S V. C.R.C.

E. F. Fincher and Miss M. Churn (St. Andrew's) lost to W. C. Choy and Miss W. Cheung 1-2; beat S. W. Liang and Mrs. Liang 2-1; beat

H. T. Woo and Miss Ulian Khoo 2-1.

H. Kew and Miss F. Wong (St. Andrew's) lost to Choy and Cheung 5-2; beat Liang and Liang 2-1; lost to Woo and Khoo 10-11.

R. H. Wong and Miss E. B. B. B. (St. Andrew's) lost to Choy and Cheung 2-2; beat Liang and Liang 2-2; lost to Woo and Khoo 6-21.

Macao Hockey Team Held To A Draw

YESTERDAY'S FINE GAME

The Macao Hockey Club senior and junior teams visited the Colony yesterday, and in the afternoon were soon in action against the Hongkong Singapore Brigade, Royal Artillery, in the Marina ground.

In the match between the Macao first eleven and the Brigade today the final result was a goalless draw. It was a magnificent game played at a fast pace throughout with many exciting moments.

Though the Brigade had most of the game they found the Portuguese defence on form, their goalkeeper playing a wonderful game.

Prior to this match, the Brigade junior team by four goals to nil. The scores at half-time was 3-0.

On the Marina ground this afternoon the Macao junior team will be opposed to the Club de Recreo. This will be followed by a match between the Macao seniors and the Puntis Regiment and another splendid game should be witnessed.

The first team of the Macao Club will be—J. da Costa, F. Ramalho, M. Cardoso, Alex. Alrosa, C. Almada, Amelcar and Pedro Angelo, J. and F. Nolace, and H. and R. de Rosario.

The second team will consist of the following players: Lieut. F. Costa, Alberto Alrosa, J. Goncalves, V. de Rosario, M. Soares, J. Ferreira, A. Santos, Americo and Reinaldo Angelo, and J. Rodrigues.—Our Own Correspondent.

TO DAY'S GAME

This afternoon the Macao hockey team will play the Kowloon Indian Tennis Club, champions of the Mamak League on the U.S.R.C. ground, bully off at 3 p.m.

LAWN TENNIS ENTHUSIASM AT THE SCHOOLS

THIRTY-THREE ADOPT COACHING SYSTEM

NEED FOR PROPER COURTS

London, Dec. 8. This is the time of year when lawn tennis interest, shifts from the courts to the council chamber. It is the season of annual general meetings of all kinds, from those of the clubs, through those of the County Associations, up to that of the Lawn Tennis Association itself, which seems unlikely to raise any of those controversial questions which, in some annual meetings both of the near and remote past, have made discussion so excited that had the public the right of admission, an entertainment tax would justifiably have been leviable, writes the Lawn Tennis Correspondent of the London Observer.

One hundred and sixty-nine open tournaments were held in this country, as well as more than fifty junior tournaments: the junior tournaments have increased in numbers, though the open meetings show a slight falling off. Just under £2,000 was spent during the year by the L.T.A. on its coaching activities, its grants-in-aid being taken advantage of by almost every affiliated county association. Besides these, thirty-three of the public schools availed themselves of the facilities offered by the L.T.A. for the coaching of their boys. But though a considerable amount of benefit has doubtless been obtained by the players coached under the county system, the public schools section of coaching is not likely to be a success until proper courts are provided and more interest taken in the game by the public school authorities, who seem still to be of the opinion that lawn tennis is an unmanly game, though their attitude probably only conceals their dread that it might oust cricket in the matter of popularity. Public school lawn tennis will never be encouraged until the parents of boys insist that it shall form just as integral a part of the school games curriculum as football and cricket.

The report which the Council will present to the meeting offers many lions of interest. Forty-two more clubs in the County Associations of England, in Scotland, and in Wales have become affiliated to the L.T.A. during the year, making a grand total of 2,519. This increase is a healthy sign, though of course there is still a very large number of clubs unaffiliated, some of them because they have no county association of which to become members. But there are now thirty-six county associations affiliated to the L.T.A., which includes all the principal ones, and it is probably only a question of a few years before every English county will have formed its own county association.

BRITAIN'S LEADING PLACE
Touching upon matters concerning the Davis Cup, the report recalls that the qualifying competition for this event has now been abandoned after a two years' trial, and that the Cup will continue to be played for annually, a motion that it should only take place biennially having been defeated. The scores and results of the international matches played by Great Britain in 1935 and an account of the tours organised by the L.T.A. and of how our teams fared in the various "official" championships of the year make quite interesting reading, and, as a country, we have no reason to feel anything but proud of the position taken by our players in these various competitions; and especially in the retention of the Davis Cup.

The financial statement shows a profit of £2,500 from the Challenge Round of the Davis Cup, but does not include the profits made from the Championships of this year's Wimbledon, at present unascertained. The previous year's amount received on this account, however, shows a considerable falling off from the amount received in 1933; but, considering the huge attendances at this year's Wimbledon and the new arrangement entered into by the L.T.A. with the All-England Club, the figures which will appear in the accounts for 1936 should show a very considerable improvement.

TRIANGULAR TOURNAMENT RUGBY MATCH

The following will represent the Hongkong Football Club against the Army in the second round of the Triangular Tournament on the Club Ground at 4 p.m. to-day:
L. G. Robertson (Capt.), H. R. McClelland, J. H. Hichson, G. C. McEneaney, K. A. Munro, A. H. R. Butcher and J. L. Bonnar; A. F. Walkden, G. S. Chambers, J. H. McEneaney, J. S. Dunnett, W. E. Peers, E. B. Gammell, E. P. Humphreys and M. S. Cumming.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

SHADYSIDE PICKED TO WIN CONFERENCE
1934 TEAM RETURNS INTACT
FOOTBALL FANS IN THIS SECTION HAVE ALREADY AWARDED THE PALM TO SHADYSIDE LAST YEAR. IT SWEEP EVERYTHING BEFORE IT, IN ITS CLIMB TO THE FULL STRENGTH RETURNING.

HEY, WHAT'S THE BIG IDEA, JIMMY, IN WRITING STUFF LIKE THIS?

WE'LL HAVE TO ORDER NEW FOOTBALL HEADGUARDS TO FIT THE CHANGE IN HEAD-SIZES!

THOSE KIDS WON'T GET COCKY, COACH... THEY'RE TOO LEVEL-HEADED... AND EVEN IF THEY DO, THEY'RE STILL TOO GOOD FOR THOSE OTHER TEAMS!!

THEY AREN'T CALLED THE SHADY-SIDE COUGARS, FOR NOTHING!

AND A LOT OF COUGARS GO TO SLEEP AND WAKE UP IN SOMEBODY'S TROPHY ROOM!

YOU'RE PUTTING THOSE KIDS ON STILTS, AND THE FIRST THING YOU KNOW, SOMEBODY'S GONNA PAVE THEIR BOULEVARD WITH BANANA SKINS!!

They are touting Jack McCoy from Morris England as the next light heavyweight champion of the world, following his victory over Al McCoy of Montreal and Boston, Canadian light heavyweight champion, in New York. McCoy gets a shot at John Henry Lewis' crown next. Here he is teaching friend Al, that there are some British mittmen who can hit as well as box. It's a hard smash to the jaw in the third round. McCoy took a count of four, came up to run into a flashing barrage from a two-handed slugger, who mixes science with his punching. Below McCoy is seen with Lord Londale's belt which he owns outright by virtue of three successful defences of his British title.

BOAT RACE Oxford Discover A Stroke

London, Dec. 8. With the Trial Eights both at Oxford and Cambridge completed, the University oarsmen can now take a few weeks' well-earned rest until they are called upon to reassemble early in the New Year. They will then set to work in earnest in preparation for the University Boat Race, which is to be rowed on Saturday, April 4, states the London Observer.

Although these are early days, I think that we should see a much better race next year than the last, which was one of the most disappointing for years. Oxford, for the time past, has had the reputation for ponderosity, and their crew— invariably—been heavier—than their rivals. At the present time, however, Oxford seem to have discarded their heavyweights, and they are concentrating upon producing a crew who should be much more adept than the heavy men. Real good heavyweight who can "pull their weight" for over four miles are very hard to find, and when they find "fourteen stone odd" is a big addition for the other members of the crew to "carry along." In the Trial Eights at Henley a week ago, C. Cherry was the only oarsman to turn the scale at over thirteen stone, whilst the other fifteen oarsmen, eleven of them were twelve stone or over, three eleven stone or over, and one ten stone odd. Consequently it was not surprising that the Oxford crews could row a much higher rate of striking than for many years past.

do not remember another Oxford crew that could row two strokes to the minute, as Hope's crew did during the practice at Henley. I trust that nothing will be done to curb the racing spirit of R. Hope, for it has been possible for the sequence of Oxford defeats in the Boat Race. In opinion, the form of Hope, as a stroke, was the discovery of the Trial Eights. When term commenced he was president of the Boat Club, but during the period of training that was carried out at Henley at the end of September he appeared to have lost his form; so shortly after the commencement of term he resigned office. He was only introduced to the Trial Eights ten days before the stroke; it was soon evident that he possessed racing powers, and he never lost his seat afterwards. I know that he was criticised last Saturday by some of the "theorists" for his bad "body form," lack of length, etc., but in my opinion Hope will never be a "pretty" oarsman.

However, if a man with all these faults can race, and can also infuse his own racing spirit into his crew, he will get my vote every time against a "pretty" oarsman who lacks racing spirit.

SERIAL STORY—

BARGAIN BRIDIE

by KATHARINE HAVLAND-TAYLOR

CHAPTER XXI

The last thing Elinor wished that morning was the further strain of seeing Barrett Colvin. He had, with a blunt, inconsiderate strength she had not dreamed he possessed, over-ruled her suggestion that he should wait for the interview until her father was better. As she said those last words her voice caught.

"I must see you," Barrett repeated. "It is important for both of us."
"I don't see how it could be, Mr. Colvin," explain that I wouldn't bother you unless it was really necessary." He had not meant to let bitterness creep into that last sentence but it had, in spite of the defenses of will that he had erected against it. Well, since she enjoyed toying with aging hearts it might amuse her to laugh at their stiffened crackling.

There was a silence. He broke it by saying, "I'm coming to see you immediately. I'll only stay a few moments. Will you see that I am admitted? I'm only asking because it's really necessary."

"Yes, I'll see you for a few moments," Mr. Colvin said, she promised after another brief silence.
"Thank you," she heard. She put down the telephone. Benson stood waiting and she knew by his dejected look that something else of a troublesome nature had come up.

"It's the drugist," Miss Elinor said. Benson stated miserably. "He won't have the medicine unless it is paid for."
Purse in hand she hurried to the foyer where the delivery boy waited, a trifle insolent because of his instructions. She could still settle these small charges. But the two nurses the doctor, the endless needs made by a critically sick patient, and the need to manage to pay such bills? She had talked that morning to the one clerk in her father's decaying brokerage office. He had stammered that he needed his salary. He had two little girls and a wife who was not well. He had his own bills. Elinor had dropped to a chair rather too suddenly, talking with him.

"How are things at the office, Mr. Gerould?" she had asked. "Bad," he told her bluntly, though his eyes were sympathetic. "You see," he stammered, "so many people were waiting with the expectation that Mr. Stafford would be remembered rather generously in Miss Sexton's will. The place is alive now with folks trying to collect what they can. It went down and away the line this morning and turned right around and came away. The rent's overdue two months. The collector let it go, thinking—"
"Yes, I know," she answered dully. She moistened her stiffened, drying lips. "How much did my father owe you?" she asked. She could not let this go. The man had worked faithfully for her father for years. He sides there were his two small daughters and his ailing wife.
She paid him his salary with a ring worth twice the amount and $20 from her purse.

"I'm awfully sorry for you, Miss Stafford," said the clerk, leaving. Her answering smile was a trifle twisted despite her effort to keep it genuine. "Thank you," she answered. People were kind but kindness would not buy drugs, comfort and ease for her father. He must have the right treatment. His chance to get well.

Barrett Colvin's telephone call had come just after that.
She received him in the drawing room. She had not been able to step into the library since she had seen the blood stains on a Chinese rug that, light in hue, showed them clearly.

"Miss Stafford," she heard Barrett say and saw him bow. She murmured something vague.
"I'm going to sit down just a moment, please."

She settled after his words and he dropped to a chair facing her.
"I have a business proposition to make to you," he began bluntly.
"Yes?" she prompted.

"A proposition that is—will be—entirely one of a business nature. Will you keep that in mind, please?"

"Yes," she said. "I have made a point of learning—that your credit is almost exhausted and that your father's business was on the verge of collapse before this—accident."

Her rounded chin went up with a little jerk. He saw this and went on swiftly, smoothly.

"I know and you know that Miss Ella Sexton's will was unfair to your father and to your relatives, the Thropes."

"Yes, but I don't blame you—" "That doesn't matter. What you and I feel about blame—or anything—can't matter in this affair we must discuss. It's entirely a cold-blooded, emotionless affair which has to do with the righting of that unjust will. I want to give back to the Thropes the money they should have had and need. I want to give your father the money that will help him in his chance to get well. I shall never touch a cent of the money left by Miss Sexton. Unless you help me it will go to charities in no particular need of it. The money really belongs to the Thropes and your father."

She said nothing.
"You can help me right a tragic wrong," Barrett went on. "You can give your father his chance to get well, give peace to the Thropes and an education to those three boys. Will you do this?"

"How?" "By marrying me," he said slowly. She lost colour and he went on hastily. "I'm asking you to live in my house as my guest for one year. In that way I can turn over to you and the Thropes the money that is morally if not legally, yours and theirs. It's the only way to rectify the mistake of your aunt who unfortunately was sound of mind, if not of heart, when she made her will."

"But why for a year?" Elinor asked brokenly. She was oddly dizzy and disconcerted.

"Because," he answered, "a year will quiet any idle talk there may be. I don't want anyone to know the reason for our marriage. The world would misunderstand. It might possibly see me as a hero instead of a man who merely happens to be honest enough not to want to rob others. It might see you as a girl who sold herself instead of a girl willing to forget herself in order to help someone else."

He paused. He saw her draw a deep breath. She looked remarkably like a little girl who is balked at her lessons.

"The Thropes and their boys, your father—" Barrett reminded slowly. She whispered, "I don't know—"

She held a finger against her lips and he noticed that her hand was trembling. For a fleeting space and against his reason the old tenderness for her returned. He was ashamed by the emotion which must, he felt, be wholly physical. How it startled!

"All I'm asking," he said, "is that for a year you will, in public, conduct yourself as my wife. You will have to forego, for the time, the admiration to which you have been accustomed—"

She smiled a little at that but he did not understand her smile.

"And in turn," he continued more weightily, "I give you my word that I will never raise my hand to touch you except before others. We may have to masquerade a little before others. You can have my word that you will be safe and that I will do everything to make the situation as easy for you as possible."

He saw her moisten her lips, hesitate.

Benson appeared in the broad doorway. "It's that Mr. Streeter again, Miss Stafford," he said apologetically. "He pushed past me and refuses to go. He says he must see you. He won't wait."

"A collector?" Barrett asked. Elinor nodded and his gaze followed a swallow on the rounded, soft column of her throat. For a moment she closed her eyes.

"I'll deal with him," said Barrett as a small, round man appeared in the door.

be popular in any nation choosing to fit this case to its facts.

MAJORITY CONTENT

President Roosevelt said his sentiments would find sympathy with nations desiring peace, but which were forced to align themselves in the characteristic European and Asiatic relations to-day. He believed that 90 per cent. of the world's population was content with its boundaries and was willing to reduce its armaments. But 10 per cent. of the population was forcing armaments upon the rest.

That's why even the efforts to continue the existing limits of naval armaments show little success," he asserted.

The United States' policy was consistent with its desires to limit armaments and peacefully solve disputes, and to generally oppose repression of autonomy. He cited the neutrality legislation and said it was inevitable both the American continent must maintain a well-ordered neutrality but adequate defenses and do their utmost to persuade the belligerents to return to peace.

THREAT TO PEACE

"Evidence proves," he said, "that autocracy endangers peace. Such threats do not spring from nations devoted to a democratic ideal," he declared.

He continued his anti-autocracy theme, dealing with domestic matters. He said that the numerically small but politically powerful financial and industrial groups opposed the New Deal's ideals—and efforts, but that despite opposition the reform programme was at the moment nearly completed. Those who wanted special privileges were attempting to regain power, however, he maintained.

WANT AN AUTOCRACY

He said that if his opponents were given their way they "will take the course of every autocracy—power for themselves, enslavement for the public." He said these autocrats were using a synthetic fear to gain their ends.

The President cited the industrial and agricultural advances in America and said the approaching balance of the budget would be due to increasing tax receipts, but without new taxation. "It is my belief that new taxes are not advisable or necessary," he said.

Due to recovery, he said, they could anticipate a reduction in relief appropriations. He urged Congress "that we advance, and not retreat."

"I have confidence you will not fail the people whose mandate you have already faithfully fulfilled," United Press.

THE MAGISTRATES
ORDINANCE*PROPOSED CHANGE IN LAW

The Gazette contains the draft of an Ordinance to amend further the Magistrates Ordinance, 1932.

It is explained that Section 26 of the Magistrates Ordinance, 1932, has been repealed in order to avoid overlapping with section 18 of the Police Ordinance, 1932, as enacted by section 1 of the Police Force Amendment Ordinance, 1935.

In section 105—(5)—of the Magistrates Ordinance, 1932, the conditions of the recognition do not require the attendance of the appellant at the hearing of the appeal. It merely required submission to the judgment of the Full Court and appearance before the magistrate with-in 10 days after such judgment. If the decision was adverse the appellant had ample time to forfeit his recognition and leave the Colony. Section 3 of this Ordinance abolishes this period and requires the appellant's attendance at the hearing of the appeal.

Section 109 (1) of the Magistrates Ordinance, 1932, makes no provision for service of notice by post but it has been found in practice that such facilities are desirable. In the new section 4 of this Ordinance the wording of section 31 of the Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879 as enacted by section 1 (2) of the Summary Jurisdiction (Appeals) Act, 1933 has been used as a guide and the facilities for service by post therein provided have been adopted.

Section 6 of this Ordinance gives to the magistrate's clerk similar facilities for service by post which were lacking under section 118E (1) of the Magistrates Ordinance, 1932, as enacted by section 2 of the Magistrates Amendment Ordinance, 1935.

New Air Rules
Follow Loss Of Kingsford Smith

Singapore, Dec. 20.

As the result of the loss of Sir Charles Kingsford Smith restrictions are to be placed on civil aviators flying between India and Singapore.

Major Mann, Director of Civil Aviation at Singapore, announces, after consultation with R.A.F. authorities, that he is arranging to tighten up the regulations controlling flying between India and Singapore. Wireless equipment will become compulsory for all machines, and airmen will have to declare their precise route before taking off.

Considerable difficulty was experienced in searching for Sir Charles Kingsford Smith over the wide area in which he might have landed.—United Press.

ENGLISH FLOODS
CONTINUE*BUT OUTLOOK MORE REASSURING

London, Jan. 3.

Although the flood conditions in many districts of the Thames Valley were again worse to-day and the rate of flow of the river is now over nine thousand million gallons in 24 hours, there was a reassuring note in to-day's official statement of the Thames Conservancy Board to the effect that with the present tendency the river should steady and fall, but continued rain is forecast for the next 24 hours at least.

To-day, the main Bath Road through Maidenhead had to be closed owing to the depth of the floods, and the diversion of traffic through the narrow lanes of Eton resulted in blocks and delays.

The Great Western Railway hope to effect temporary repairs to the Salisbury-Devizes Road Bridge over the river in Wiltshire in time to render it safe for railway traffic again on Sunday.

Inundations have caused further subsidence of the railway embankment on the local Southern line, and an omnibus service has had to be substituted between places affected by the discontinuation of the train service.—British Wireless.

U.S. MARKET
OUTLOOK*BUYING ORDERS WAITING

New York, Jan. 3.

The Wall Street Journal states that United States whiskies will probably be reduced in price in the near future, in order to compete with the price cuts in imported whiskies.

New York Central probably covered fixed charges in 1935 for the first time since 1931.

Owens, Illinois, made a new high record in volume of business in 1935.

Wall Street was to-day moderately bullish on the leading soap companies. The stock market starts the New Year with considerable buying waiting for the current levels. Traders favour utilities. Little interest is being displayed in the convening of Congress.—United Press.

THE MacDONALDS' CONTESTS*POSITION NOT YET DEFINITE

London, Jan. 3.

Dr. Mavour, better known as the dramatist, James Bridle, has decided not to accept nomination as an Independent Conservative for the combined Scottish Universities in opposition to the Lord President of the Council, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald. It is not yet known whether there will be a Liberal candidate in addition to Mr. MacDonald's Labour and Scottish Nationalist opponents.

The position in the other impending Scottish by-election, in Ross and Cromarty, is still undefined. Newspapers suggest that the Dominions Secretary, Mr. Malcolm MacDonald, will not decide whether to accept the invitation of the local Liberal Association to stand as a National Government candidate for a day or two. Various organisations representing different sections of the National Government supporters in the constituency have yet to conclude consideration of the situation arising from the elevation of the sitting member, Sir Ian MacEpherson, to the Peerage.—British Wireless.

ROYAL VISIT TO EASTBOURNE*THEIR MAJESTIES TO STAY A MONTH

London, Jan. 3.

It is expected that the King and Queen will again visit Eastbourne this year, probably arriving in the latter half of February. The King went to Eastbourne last spring on medical advice and was stated to have benefited by his stay.

Their Majesties will go to Compton Place, the Duke of Devonshire's residence, and the visit may last a little over a month.—British Wireless.

CHINESE ART
EXHIBITION*STILL AS POPULAR AS EVER

London, Jan. 3.

Visitors to the Chinese Art Exhibition at Burlington House, to the end of December, numbered nearly 100,000.

The record day attendance was registered yesterday, when about 7,000 people visited the Exhibition.—Reuter.

Five cases of Diphtheria and one case of Typhoid were reported to the local Health authorities on Thursday.

STRICT CONTROL OF RADIO

to require the production of all telegraphic messages, and imposes penalties for refusal to produce.

Clause 6, which reproduces most of the provisions of the Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894, protects certain telegraphic messages from publication within a certain period.

Clause 7 empowers the Governor-in-Council to make regulations governing telegraphs generally.

Clause 8 allows the revocation of licences for good cause.

Clause 9 exempts the Government from liability from loss or damage caused by the loss or delay of a telegraphic message.

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY

Part V (Clauses 27-35) deals exclusively with radio-communication (i.e. wireless telegraphy) and provides inter alia for the following matters:—

(a) the vesting in the Governor-in-Council of the exclusive privilege of establishing and using stations and appliances for transmitting and receiving wireless messages, with the right to licence installations and apparatus ashore and afloat;

(b) the licensing of dealers in apparatus for radio-communication, with the main object of checking and tracing the existence of unlicensed installations;

(c) the making by the Governor-in-Council of regulations for examining and issuing certificates of proficiency to operators, for ensuring the secrecy of wireless communications, for controlling, by rules to be framed beforehand, the use of wireless apparatus in times of emergency, and generally for giving effect to the provisions of this Part;

(d) the payment, out of fines inflicted on offenders, of rewards to persons supplying the information that has led to conviction.

The Ordinance will become effective on such date as the Governor may fix by proclamation.

H.K. GOVERNMENT
APPOINTMENTS*SEVERAL CHANGES ANNOUNCED

The following appointments have been made by His Excellency the Governor:—

Mr. R. A. D. Forrest to be Principal Assistant Colonial Secretary and Clerk of Councils.

Mr. H. R. Butters to be Deputy Clerk of Councils.

The Hon. Sir Thomas Southorn, to be Chairman of the Licensing Board for a period of three years.

Mr. T. S. Whyte-Smith to be Land Officer.

Mr. J. B. Prentiss to act as a Deputy Registrar of Marriages in addition to his other duties.

Mr. R. A. C. North to be an Assistant to the Secretary for Chinese Affairs.

Mr. E. J. Edwards to act as Inspector of English Schools, vice Mr. A. C. Brown, on leave prior to retirement.

Dr. W. C. W. Nixon to be a Member of the Midwives Board for a term of three years.

Dr. Li Shu-fan and Mr. Abbas of Arcull to be two of the additional members of the Urban Council.

Sub-inspector William Ritchie to be an Examiner of Weights and Measures under the Weights and Measures Ordinance, 1885, section 4, and also an Inspector under the Gunpowder and Fireworks Ordinance, 1901, section 14.

FORGED BANK NOTESTHREE MEN COMMITTED TO CRIMINAL SESSIONS

After a protracted hearing, the case in which Fun Shu, master of the Kam Cheung Pice-goods shop, Cheung Kin-pul, book-keeper at the On Lok Yuen Cafe, 25, Des Voeux Road Central, and Sze To-wai, unemployed, are charged with possession of forged bank notes, was concluded before Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Central Police Court yesterday afternoon, when the defendants were committed for trial.

The case for the Crown was conducted by Mr. E. H. Williams, Assistant Attorney General, assisted by Detective Inspector Andrew.

Fun Shu was defended by Mr. Hin-shing Lo, instructed by Mr. J. M. Hall, while Mr. J. M. D'Almada Remedios represented Cheung Kin-pul. Mr. F. G. Nigel appeared for Sze To-wai.

Fun Shu, who gave evidence the previous day, was yesterday cross-examined at length by Mr. Williams. He repeated that he gave $200 to the second defendant, Cheung, to purchase cloth for him, some time ago. On November 12, witness came to Hongkong and stayed at the Kei Fat Boating House. Two days later he pawned a watch and gave his address as the Empress Hotel, because, in his opinion, the address was better.

On November 23 he saw Cheung at the On Lok Yuen Cafe and Cheung paid him the $200. He did not think the notes were forgeries. He seldom used Chartered Bank notes and it was the first time he had seen red Chartered Bank $10 notes. He placed all the notes in his sock as he was afraid of losing the money. It was still in his sock when he went to the pawnshop.

At the conclusion, Mr. Hin-shing Lo submitted that on the story told by the witness no jury would convict. The Crown had not proved intent and he asked for his acquittal.

The Magistrate: It is not a question of what a jury would do in this case, this is a prima facie case. The defence of Cheung and Sze To-wai was reserved.
